Ill Judged Economy

Most of the economies practiced by the city council last year were unavoidable, such as reduction of street department expenditures when lack of material and labor made improvements impossible. But one was deliberate: the withholding of the annual $100 gift to the Carmel Art Association.

The council had some excuse for its action, however, as the matter came up for consideration at a time when a good many citizens, including some members of the council, were still expecting the Japs to fly over Carmel almost any night and drop incendiaries on our redwood shingles. Civilian defense expenditures for the preceding year had been breath taking, and the council did not then anticipate that the revamped civilian defense would be more economical as well as more efficient, nor did they seem to foresee that war time shortages would make impossible the usual expenditures in other departments.

Their reasoning as revealed in the discussion which took place around the council table went something like this: "There won't be any Bach Festival this year, so we won't have to give $100 for that. As long as we aren't granting a gift to the Bach Festival, we don't have to give a gift to the Art Association, and this will be all to the good because we don't know when an 'emergency' (fancy word for Jap bombing) will occur which will draw on all of our resources. So we won't give the Art Association its $100 this year." And a good many citizens approved the economy, and perhaps the council was right. There are worse mistakes than to err in the direction of caution.

But now the likelihood of an "emergency" becomes more remote than ever, and the need for hoarding a reserve fund to meet it slight indeed, especially since civilian defense has proven that it can maintain a strong skeleton organization on a vastly reduced budget. There remains no further excuse, then, for withholding the $100 donation to the Art Association, and to this year's gift should be added the $100 withheld last year. Moreover, the council would do well to consider if some way couldn't be devised by which the Art Association could be exempted from the taxes it pays on Gallery property. The Gallery is a source of pride to the town as a whole and of esthetic pleasure to a great many of the citizens. Even with forgiveness of taxes added to the yearly gift, the city would be doing little enough in return for what the gallery, just by the fact of its being here, does for the town.

The Dimes Start Marching

The little wishing wells will appear throughout town today and the fine big March of Dimes begins officially in Carmel .We need not urge our fellow citizens to send their dimes to join the fight against the children's enemy. This

Lorna Lindsley, Writer, Traveler, Sees in Present World Conflict People's Revolt Against Fascism

By Irene Alexander

An interesting Carmel visitor of last week was Mrs. Lorna Lindsley, world traveler and author of War Is People, published last April by the Houghton Mifflin company, and during her stay here a guest of Mr. Noel Sullivan at Hollow Hills Farm.

Mrs. Lindsley is a native of Boston, the daughter of Frederic Jesup Stimson, well-known lawyer, diplomat and writer, and close friend of Woodrow Eilson. She has led an unusually varied life, spent during the early years of her marriage in out-of-the-way mining camps, on the high seas during the years that deep-sea sailing was her hobby and expert navigating one of her skills, and of later years as a free lance journalist probing fearlessly into the acute danger spots of Europe.

She made the perilous journey under sail as far as Greece, has crossed the Atlantic in the famed Wanderbird, and with Alan Villiers has made several voyages in the schooner, Joseph Conrad.

It was in the mining camps that Mrs. Lindsley found the theme of all her subsequent explorations—the People—what they are struggling for, and most particularly what they are struggling against. While War Is People is her first published book recording these explorations, she is the author of numerous articles which have appeared in the Manchester Guar-

We Need Not Fear Russia If We Co-operate, Dr. Phillips, Forum Speaker, Tells Carmel Audience

Clear, unprejudiced thinking, the need of facing our relations with Russia free from the bias of our feelings, our desires, or our personal preferences, was the central theme of Dr. Hubert Phillips' discussion of the question, "Need the World Fear Soviet Russia," at the Carmel Forum at Sunset school on Tuesday evening.

Dr. Phillips explained that he spoke not as a prophet, but as a student of Russia and of world conditions, having gathered his knowledge from reading about both pre-revoluntionary Russia and the new Soviet Union and from having personally seen some aspects of the new Russia; from this knowledge he offered what he feels to be the best surmises possible of the country and its relation to the rest of the world.

As a student of social institutions, the speaker was much interested in the revolution and the way the Russian people were working out theor social problems. It is good American doctrine that revolution is sometimes necessary and that institutions sometimes need to be revamped. Old Russia was very much out of step with the modern world; the Czar was an absolute dictator in a world of western nations where much of the power rested in some portion of the people. A change was inevitable, though we cannot be blind to the things in the revolution that were objectionable.

Dr. Phillips considered the fear of Russia in three aspects, the past, the present, and the future. There was much fear of the country in the past, especially in Germany because of its great mass, its hordes of people who might pour across the boundary into the country and overwhelm it. The Germans and the English regarded the Russians as a semi-Oriental semi-barbaric people who threatened western civilization.

After the revolution the military power was considered as negligible, but there was great dread of an ideological invasion. Trotsky believed in bringing about a world revolution, and this was the policy of one wing of the party, but the fear of attempted revolution in other countries persisted long after Trotsky had passed from the Russian government. The present government is interested only in the advancement of the country and its people, the speaker said.

Judgment in this country was influenced by emotion and by knowledge of the inefficiency and bad equipment of the army in Old Russia; when the country was attacked by Germany our military leaders gave her six weeks, no more. The magnificent performance and high morale of the army and civilians have greatly impressed the Americans and the British, although certain groups still warn us against our "new friend." The Pravda stand and the Polish boundary question have played into the hands of these groups opposing Russia. As to the

City Costs Down $11,960 Clerk's Report Shows

A reduction of $11,960.90 in the cost of Carmel city government is revealed by a comparison of the 1942 with the 1943 annual report of the city clerk. Disbursements for 1943 were $59,174.50, for 1942, $71,135.40. The 1943 report appears on page 10 of this issue of the Pine Cone-Cymbal.

A department by department analysis, however, shows that in almost all cases savings were achieved through the curtailment of improvements and repairs because of war time shortages of labor and materials. Actual operating expenses in all departments except civilian defense are either constant or show an increase.

As is to be expected, the largest decrease of expenditure, $4,818.81, occurred in the Street Department. Almost half of the reduction is attributed to payroll savings. The department work was carried on last year with a crew of two or three men against a crew that varied from six to seven men the preceding year. The rest of the saving was in material no longer available for repair and improvements of streets, and in upkeep and operating expense of equipment which has been lying idle. Expenditures for 1942 in the Street Department were $15,546.15; for 1943, $10,727.34.

Civilian Defense costs are down $3,015.38 due to the reorganization that occurred last year which eliminated many unessential activities. Also, purchases for equipment made in 1942 did not have to be repeated in 1943. Civilian Defense spent $4,546.59 in 1942; $1,531.21 in 1943.

Police Department expenditures were $466.95 less last year than the year before though operating expenses actually increased. The department was able to claim a spot on the favorable side of the ledger because certain expenditures: police radio, $502.23, Special Police for Hallowe'en $108, police school and new equipment, $570.50 which occurred in 1942 did not have to be made in 1943. Though there are fewer men on the force now and in 1943 than in 1942, the total payroll has increased. Car allowance is up $1,178.50. It amounted to $1,695.00 in 1942, $2,873.50 in 1943. Total police expenditure for 1943 was $17,610.57, for 1942 $18,077.52.

Fire Department operating expenses were approximately the same last year as the year before though the department report shows $801.87 less spent in 1943 than in 1942. The bulk of this sum represents cost of burning off lots in 1942 which has since been paid for directly by the property owners. The lot clearance work was not done last year. Total expenditures for the fire department for 1943 were $5,365.94; for 1942, $6,167.81.

March of Dimes On Officially In Carmel Today

The March of Dimes finally gets under way officially today, exceedingly late owing to a hitch at the county headquarters in Salinas, so late that Carmel citizens had undertaken to do what they could without leadership.

Students at the high school made plans to turn over part of the receipts from this Saturday's basketball game to the March of Dimes fund. Audiences have been donating generously throughout the week at the Carmel theatre where the wishing wells have been passed around nightly. Many citizens have sent their contributions directly to the President.

Late this week the county chairman got around to giving his Peninsula chairman, Monterey Postmaster P. J. Dougherty, word to go ahead. Dougherty immediately informed the Carmel committee, J. W. Getsinger and Fred Bechdolt that the drive was on officially. Wishing wells arrived Thursday and will be distributed throughout the town by high school students.

Specials to Make Year Long Traffic Survey in Carmel

At a meeting held last week in the office of the Chief of Police, the Special Police voted to undertake a traffic survey for the city and laid plans for the first phase of the project, a study of parking conditions in the business district.

"We want to find out how many business people park their cars in front of their place of business for the entire day," Dr. T. Grant Phillips, Captain in charge of Special Police, told the Pine Cone-Cymbal. "We also want to know what are the peak hours of traffic in the business district and what spots are most congested." Checkers will be stationed in the business area for several weeks at different seasons throughout the coming year to gather their information needed to determine if a serious traffic problem exists and if it does, how it can be best remedied.

Following the survey of the business district, the work will be carried on in different residential zones with special attention to streets that serve the State Highway and approaches to the schools. Directing the work will be Captains George Knapp and Bill Dodd.

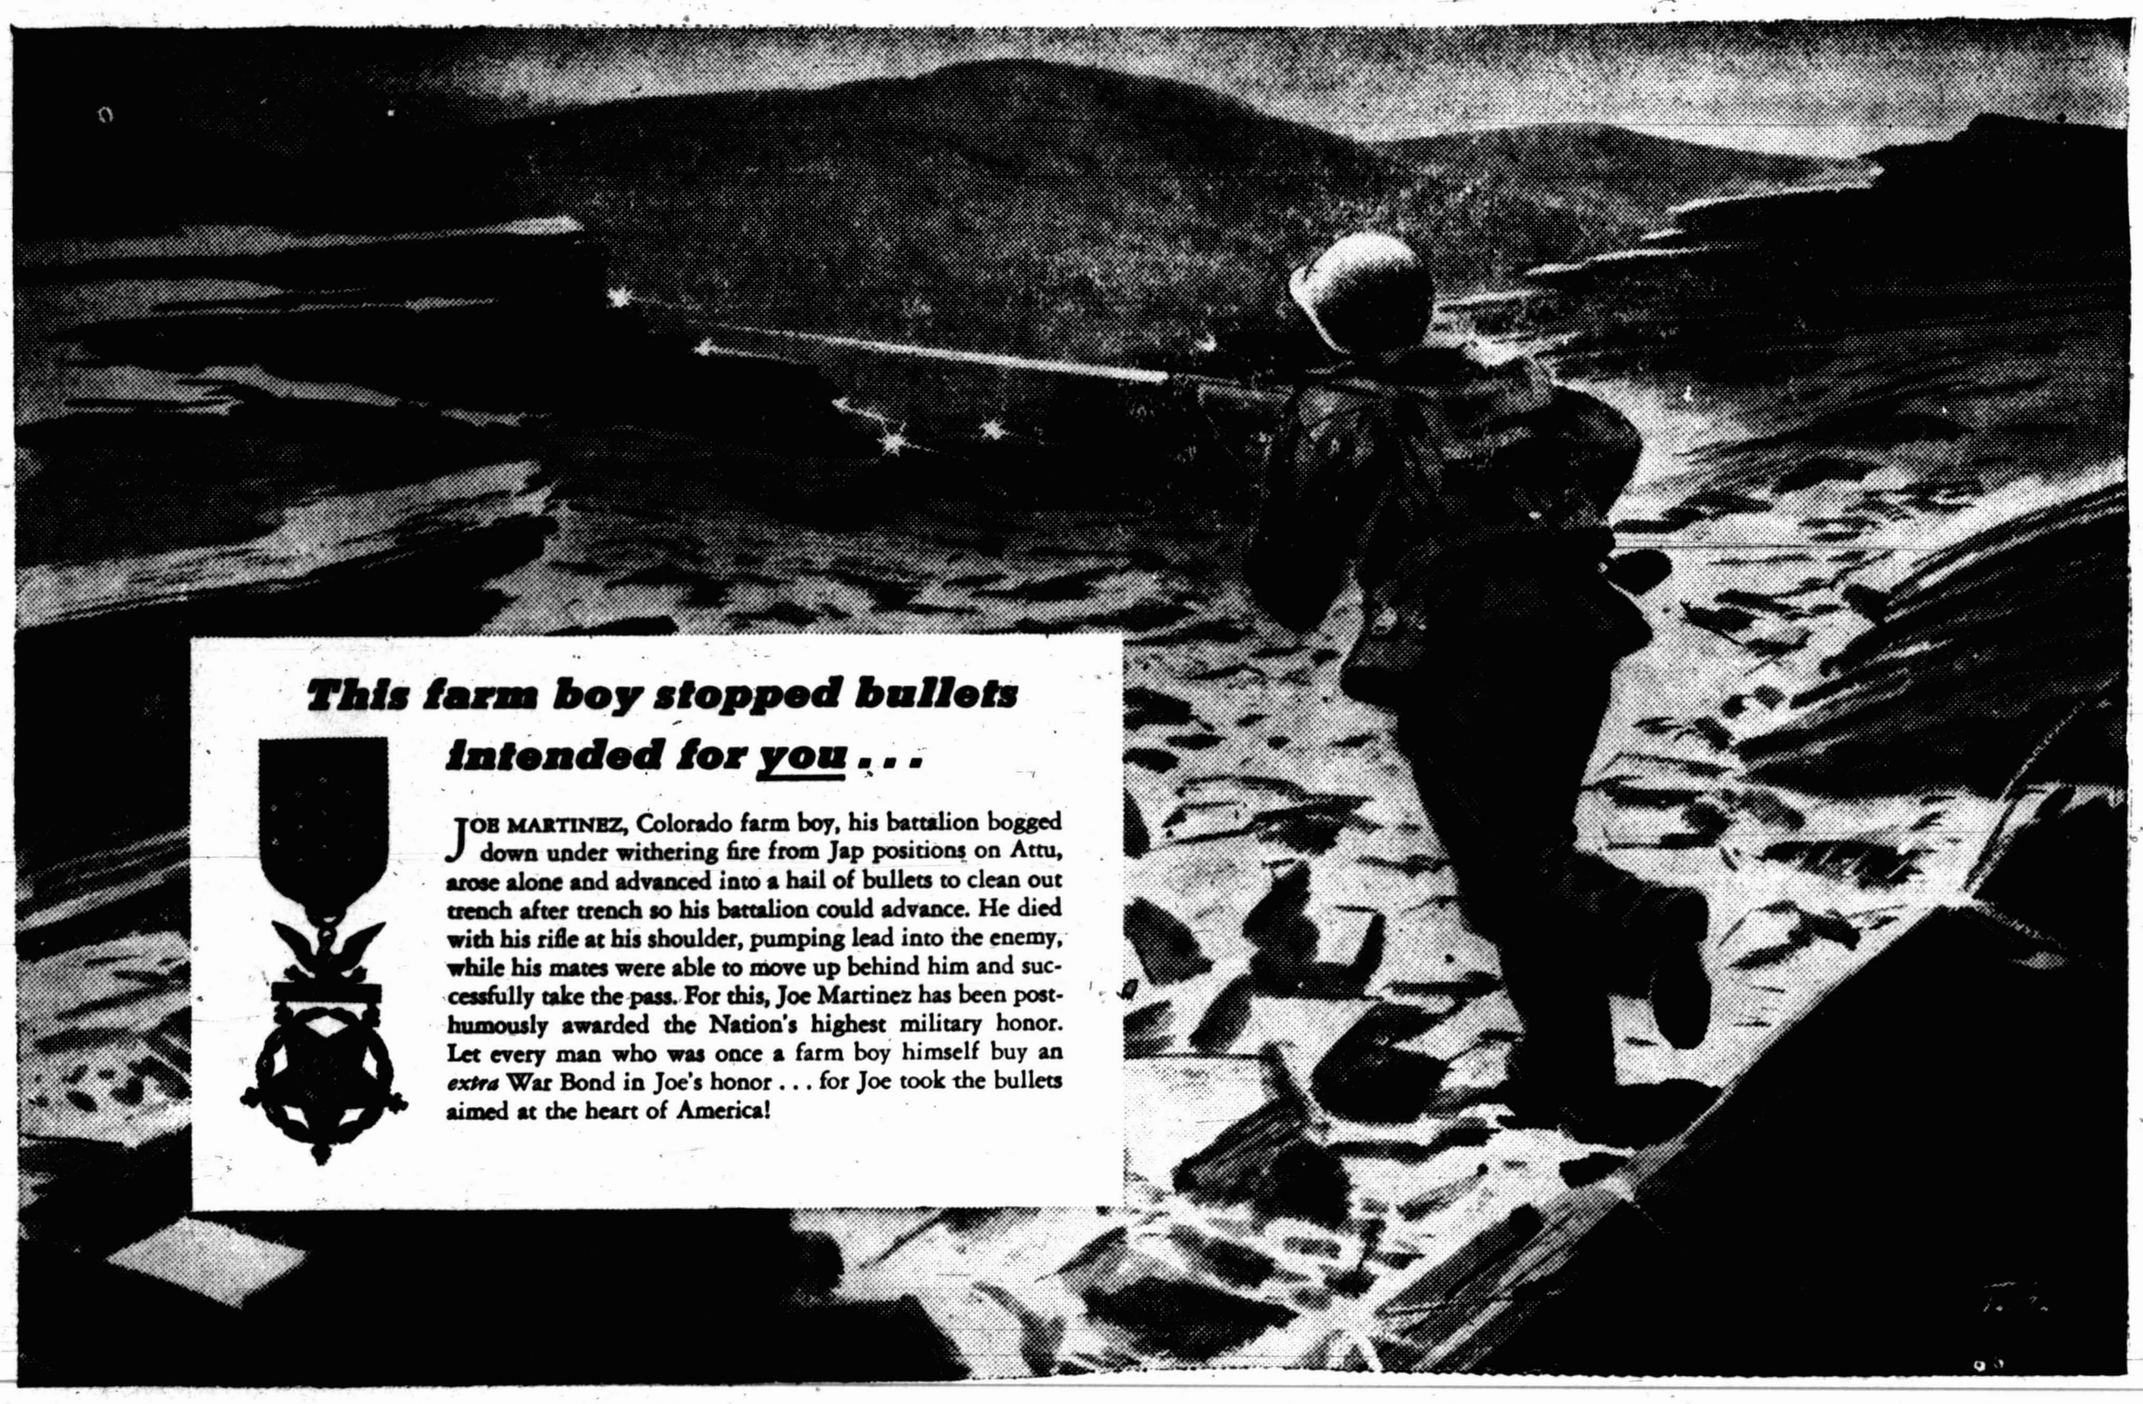
RAIN

Rainfall to the extent of 0.49 inch on January 23 and 0.43 inch on January 24, with a trace Wednesday brings the precipitation in Carmel for the season to date to 7.01, Prof. Francis E. Lloyd reported yesterday.

Precipitation last season to date was 5.96.



This farm boy stopped bullets intended for you . . .

JOE MARTINEZ, Colorado farm boy, his battalion bogged down under withering fire from Jap positions on Attu, arose alone and advanced into a hail of bullets to clean out trench after trench so his battalion could advance. He died with his rifle at his shoulder, pumping lead into the enemy, while his mates were able to move up behind him and successfully take the pass. For this, Joe Martinez has been posthumously awarded the Nation's highest military honor. Let every man who was once a farm boy himself buy an extra War Bond in Joe's honor . . . for Joe took the bullets aimed at the heart of America!

It's Time to Take the Offensive. Your government has the men it needs to do the job in the front lines—great men all! But it doesn't have the money it needs, by a long way. That's your job! And the immediate task is the Fourth War Loan—Your chance to take the offensive not only in support of the men who are fighting and dying for you and your loved ones, but also in support of your own future!

What are you going to do about a wornout tractor, about repairing fences and buildings, about replacing depreciated machinery and equipment? Will you be ready with money in the bank when these things are needed?

You will if you take the offensive now! Put every extra dollar into U. S. War Bonds—the best form of financial reserve ever offered you. Think! You are asked to make a sound and prudent investment—not a sacrifice!

When Your Boy Comes Home

Will your boy come back to a farm or ranch with no financial reserves, no future? Or will you greet him at the gate with a bundle of War Savings Bonds—for working capital, new machinery, better buildings? And if your children are going to college, why not be sure they get there by buying today the bonds that will pay the cost.

No need, really, to tell an up-to-date farmer or rancher what he needs financial reserves for. You know more reasons than anyone else can enumerate for setting aside extra dollars to meet the future. Now is your chance to do it . . . and help fight the war too!

Go on the offensive! Buy all the Bonds you can—today!

You Never Get Less Than You Lend! And you can get ⅓ more than you invest, as War Bonds yield 2.9% interest compounded semi-annually, if held to maturity. Then you get back $4 for every $3 invested.

Cash When You Need It. If an emergency comes along, your War Bonds are like money in the bank. Uncle Sam will redeem them in cash—at full purchase price—any time after you've held them 60 days. Don't cash them unless you have to. And don't hold back a single dollar unnecessarily from the purchase of War Bonds. YOUR HELP IS NEEDED.

Facts About War Bonds (Series E)

You can buy War Bonds from your bank, postmaster, mail carrier or Production Credit Association. Don't wait. Do it by mail if you can't get to town!

You Lend Uncle Sam	Upon Maturity You Get Back
$18.75	$25.00
37.50	50.00
75.00	100.00
375.00	500.00

We Need Not Fear Russia If We Cooperate Says Dr. Phillips

latter question, no definite line can be drawn separating the Russian from the Polish peoples, who have intermingled during more than a century of Russian domination. And Pravda represented the feeling of the people that a second front was long overdue.

Is there reason for fear in the future? The speaker said there is, if we take a stand imimical to the Soviets, if the United Nations do not show real cooperation. If there is an open or secret alliance against Russia, if there are any roots of naziism allowed to remain in countries conquered by Germany—for example, in Italy—then there is danger. Our policy in dealing with elements formerly linked with fascism around the Mediterranean has aroused distrust. The average American has not seen the cruelties and brutalities practiced in the countries overrun by the nazis, the speaker said, and cannot decide policies at a distance. Any weakness toward the aggressors will arouse distrust, he believes.

On the other hand there is no reason for fear of the Soviets if we discount our prejudices and view the country realistically. The revolution has become less extreme, the country has become more like the United States. The church, for example, has now more freedom than it has had in 250 years, since Peter the Great made the Holy Synod into a political body instead of a purely religious one. Russia's recent 20-year alliances with Great Britain, and then with Czechoslovakia show the desire to cooperate with the rest of the peace-loving world. Edward Benes, who signed the treaty for the Czech government-in-exile, is clear-sighted and intelligent, and by no means a communist.

Moreover, Russia will have no time nor interest for aggression in the future, he said. She will need all her strength and resources to recover from the almost unbelievable destruction and devastation wrought upon her forests, fields, farm animals, dams and industrial establishments by the invaders. Loss in population has been huge, in Leningrad alone more than a million citizens having perished during the siege. Recovering from all these losses and raising the standard of living among the people will occupy the government, which prefers peace unless forced by other countries to continue on a war footing.

An interesting period of questions followed the address, Dr. Phillips explaining reasons for many acts which Americans have criticized and distrusted. J. W. Getsinger, superintendent of Carmel schools, introduced the speaker, and F. L. McClain, principal of the adult school, conducted the forum and announced future programs. — L. L. T.

drive is always cheerfully and enthusiastically welcomed here. However, the appeal for support contained in two paragraphs of the monthly report of Dr. John C. Sharp, County Health Director, contains matter of so much interest, that we are passing it on here:

"One of the most outstanding contributions of this century, in the field of curative medicine has been the Kenny Treatment initiated by Sister Kenny, a backwoods nurse from Australia. The Kenny treatment makes use of no magic and wondrous drugs or instruments. Hot packs and physiotherapy under the supervision of skilled doctors and nurses are all that is required. It must be stressed, however, that the Kenny Treatment is not a panacea for Poliomyelitis, (Infantile Paralysis). There are cases throughout the country where the use of the iron lung is imperative to aid in combating respiratory paralysis.

"Each year the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis sponsors a March of Dimes and the President's Ball. The fund which is built up is allocated to the National and Local Foundations for their part in the fight against the disease. The National Fund subsidizes research done in this field and maintains the Sanitarium in Warm Springs, Georgia. The Local Fund is utilized to finance physiotherapy and supply braces and other special appliances for crippled children of this community The response of the public to this campaign cannot be measured in terms of dollars and cents, but in the good that is done for crippled patients and in the advancement of the knowledge of this disease."

WACS MAY CHOOSE

An unusual opportunity is open to women who enlist in the Women's Army Corps under the present recruiting program. WAC recruits may now choose their initial ASF assignment, following their basic training, within the area of the Ninth Service Command. In addition, they now have a choice of occupational fields in which to serve.

Tickets to Carmel Theatre Free With War Bond Purchase

Tickets are now on sale at the Carmel Theatre War Bond booth for the special Fourth War Loan stage and screen show to be held at the theatre on next Thursday evening, February 3rd, at 9:30 p.m. One admission ticket is given free with each purchase of a $25.00 War Bond from the Carmel Theatre booth, and all bonds sold will be credited to the Carmel Fourth War Loan Drive quota.

In addition to a new and lavish Technicolor picture, which has been donated for the Premiere there has been planned a special Army show for the stage.

During the hours when the Theatre is not open, bond applications made at Merle's Treasure Chest, Rohr's Electric Company or Wishing Wells' Rental Library will also secure tickets for this gala event.

Answers to Token Questions Given By OPA Office

Ration tokens will come into use on February 27. The following questions and answers were issued by the Office of Price Administration today to help consumers understand how they will buy with this new ration currency.

1.—Q. When will I begin to use ration tokens?

A. Consumers will begin to receive tokens in change from their retailers on February 27. They can be used immediately.

2.—Q. Will OPA give each consumer a certain number of tokens when this new program begins, just as everybody was given a supply of ration stamps?

A. No. The only tokens you will get are those your retailer gives you in change.

3.—Q. Why will I need ration tokens? So far, except for receiving 1-point meat stamps in change, I have just counted out the right number of stamps to give my retailer when I have bought rationed foods.

A. You will need change when tokens go into use because each red and each blue stamp in your ration book will be worth ten points. It will no longer be so easy to give your dealer an exact number of points as it was when you had 8, 5, 2, and 1-point stamps to use.

4.—Q. If each stamp will be worth ten points, will I have more points to spend than I do now?

A. No. You will have almost exactly the same number of points as you do now. You will simply use fewer stamps during any one ration period. That's one advantage of the new plan since handling fewer stamps will cut down the work of your retailer and will make your ration book last longer.

5.—Q. When each stamp is worth ten points, how will OPA adjust the rationing program so as to give me the same number of points per month as I have now?

A. At present, three sets of processed foods stamps, a total of 12 stamps are worth 48 points. Under the token system, five blue stamps, worth ten points each, will have a total value of 50 points. This small difference of two points can be adjusted by a slight change in the point value of processed foods.

6.—Q. Will meat stamps be handled the same way?

A. Yes. At present each consumer gets 16 meat points a week, or 32 points every two weeks. Under the token system three red stamps, worth 10 points each, will give him 30 points to use during the first two weeks of token rationing. As in processed foods rationing, the small difference of two points will be adjusted in the point value of items rationed under the meat order.

7.—Q. What will consumers do with their tokens?

A. They will use them very much as they do pennies. A consumer who buys items worth 23 blue points, for example, will give his retailer 2 blue stamps (a total of 20 points) and 3 blue tokens, (each worth 1 point). If he has no tokens he will give his retailer 3 blue stamps (30 points) and receive 7 blue tokens in change.

8.—Q. Is there any difference between the meat and the processed foods tokens?

A. The only difference in the two kinds of tokens is in their color. The colors match the stamps with which they will be used: blue stamps and blue tokens for processed foods; red stamps and red tokens for meats and fats.

9.—Q. If I have no blue tokens, may I use red ones to pay for processed foods?

A. No. You will use two kinds of tokens just as you have always used two kinds of point stamps—one set for processed foods, the other for meats.

10.—Q. What is the advantage of using tokens?

A. Tokens are expected to make rationing simpler both for consumers and for the trade. There will be point currency of only two denominations—all stamps will be worth ten points; all tokens, one point. Consumers who have long used dimes and pennies will find it easier to figure than when they handled ration stamps worth 8, 5, 2, and 1 points. It will be easier for retailers to count stamps and to make change than when they had to examine each stamp to determine its point value. Tokens are also easier to handle than stamps.

11.—Q. Will I turn in my ration tokens at the end of each ration period?

A. No. Tokens have no expiration date.

14 Polio Cases In Monterey County For Year 1943

By KENNETH C. SHERIFF, M.D.

Poliomyelitis struck again during the fall months of 1943. This disease is caused by a virus which can not be seen under magnification of the best microscope in the world. Its presence is noted only by its reaction on living cells which are necessary for its continued viability. Eevn though it can only reproduce in the presence of living cells, its tenacity allows it to remain infectious over a period of time under such adverse conditions as drying and freezing.

The first of the fourteen cases reported in Monterey County during 1943 occurred in July and the last case in November. To parents Poliomyelitis is the most feared of all epidemic diseases. Tempering of this fear might result if one will observe the case and death rates. The case rate in Monterey County has always been very low. In 1930, a non-epidemic year, the case rate was .93 cases per 10,000 people. In 1939 during the largest epidemic that Monterey County has experienced the case rate was 3.97 per 10,000. There were no deaths in Monterey County during 1943 even though there were deaths reported throughout the United States. The majority of the cases reported last year were mild with only a few showing some residual paralysis.

In a statistical study of all cases of poliomyelitis reported in Monterey County since 1925, it was found that 67.3 per cent of the cases have been males. This is generally true in most epidemics. Approximately 91 per cent of the total cases over the period of years were in the age groups below twenty. However, it has been observed that infantile paralysis is no longer affecting just the young age groups. In 1939 seven per cent of the cases were in the age group above twenty. In 1943 fourteen per cent of the cases were in the age group above twenty. These percentages are calculated on cases reported which were in both years actually very small, but they do indicate the trend which the whole country is experiencing.

Marion Brinton

Mrs. Marion B. Brinton, for the past thirty-five years a resident of the Peninsula, died in a local hospital on the morning of Wednesday, January 26, following a brief illness.

A native of Worchestershire, Pennsylvania, Mrs. Brinton lived for a time at Carmel Highlands and at Pebble Beach, making her home for the past two years in Carmel Valley.

Funeral arrangements are in charge of Paul's Mortuary, Pacific Grove.

FIRE CALL

The fire call Monday evening at 6 p.m. was occasioned by a rubbish fire behind the Mayfair House. No damage was reported other than the charring of a section of fence. Cause of the fire is unknown.

FORUM SPEAKER LIONS' CLUB GUEST

Guests at the Lions' Club dinner meeting Tuesday at Pine Inn were Leslie Bedau, David W. Stevens and Dr. Hubert Phillips, who spoke later that evening at the Carmel Forum meeting on Russia.

Small Garden Design Subject of Talk by Mrs. Wm. O'Donnell

By FLORA HARTNELL

Thirty members of the Garden Section of the Carmel Woman's Club spent a delightful hour last Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. D. E. Nixon.

Mrs. Wm. O'Donnell at that time presented to them many beautiful colored slides of small gardens, explaining the special feature of good design in each of them.

Paradoxical as it may seem, we learned that a garden looks larger when it is enclosed. This then, as well as the desire for privacy, makes inclosure important in landscaping a small garden. It may be accomplished by the use of shrubs and trees if one does not wish the more formal fence or wall.

The following suggestions for artistic effects were illustrated by the pictures:

A beautiful vista can be controlled by having it framed by an arch-way or pergola—thus centering the eye upon it.

Colorful effects in a patio can be produced by using colored tiles and pots.

Steps leading from one level of a garden to another will contribute greatly to artistic design if they are accompanied by proper planting.

Something of interest should terminate a long path-way—an inviting garden bench is often used for this purpose.

The artistic value of pools of every shape and size was emphasized by their appearance in most of the gardens shown.

A background of shrubs acts as a foil to a bed of brilliant flowers.

Plants, like people, must have a congenial environment to develop well. One can not succeed here in raising plants which need the heat of our California valleys; however, there are numerous things which thrive best only in our cool, moist, coast atmosphere.

Many helpful, practical ideas were carried away from the lecture but of greater importance are the intangible values gained, a quickened awarness of artistic detail, a new standard for criticism of one's own landscaping, and best of all inspiration for creative effort toward artistic designing in planning our own little garden plots.

OPA Does Not Have Power of Eviction

Both landlords and tenants should understand that OPA Housing Regulations have not changed local law regarding evictions, according to Wesley W. Kergan, Director-Attorney of the Monterey Bay Defense Rental Area.

Section six of the Regulations sets forth the cases in which tenants may be evicted, Kergan said, and local courts will not evict tenants for any other cause.

When a landlord desires to move back into his own house, the procedure he is to follow depends upon when he bought the house. Before starting any procedure, landlords should find out from OPA what they have to do in order to regain possession. Tenants should also ask the OPA if the landlord is entitled to evict them.

In any event, nothing done with or by OPA relieves landlords from following local law in eviction matters. Only the local courts can order tenants to vacate housing accommodations, Kergan said, and added that OPA action, in such matters, is permission only.

I'VE FREED A MARINE TO FIGHT! You can do it, too!

As a Marine, the most important and inspiring job of your life lies ahead. The achievements of your organization are written, and are being written, on history's most glorious pages.

Your Country and the Marines need you, and this is a challenge to your highest ideals of womanhood. Pay is good, even compared with high civilian wages. Lodging, food, travel expenses and handsome uniforms ($200 to $250 worth) are included.

If you're not already working on a war job, call, 'phone or write the nearest Marine Recruiting Office.

THE MARINES, TOO, DEPEND ON GREYHOUND

Like men and women in all branches of the armed forces, the Marine Corps Women's Reserve depends on Greyhound for transportation. Greyhound buses serve Camp Elliott, San Diego, and other Marine training centers, as well as Marine bases from coast to coast. Other special services are also performed by Greyhound, often on a moment's notice. For example, buses are often requisitioned from regular schedules to transfer wounded between hospitals. In spite of shortages of buses and experienced personnel, the whole Greyhound organization is concentrating its efforts and resources to provide adequate transportation for all who must travel.

HOW I BECAME A SEA DOG

By Patsy Peterson, Petty Officer 3/C

I guess I'm just about as patriotic as any of the pooches in the village. I believe dogmatically in freedom of speech, and I don't hesitate to use it either, especially when there's a cat in the offing. In fact, I'm one hundred per cent American, even though I fly to the nearest air raid shelter whenever I hear a gun sounding off. But that's because I was scared out of my wits in early puppyhood by a bad little boy popping a firecracker in my ear on the Fourth of July. It marked me for life which is really too bad because, way down deep in my Collie heart, I'm not what you call a conscientious objector. I'd gladly chew the leg off any Nazi that came within gnawing distance.

But I've been terribly upset about this whole war business, what with the doodling of the OPA, and the rationing and the bones that ain't, I got to slinking around my back yard feeling like a slacker, and no self respecting dog wants to fel like that. Of course Sunbeam, that's the golden cocker belonging to grandma, tried to console me by telling me she wouldn't think of leaving home and grandma for any old war. Not because she doesn't love our country but because she's not only gun shy, she's shy all over. I can just picture her screwed to the bottom of a Jeep, her mouth and ears growing longer and longer and longer, shivering with fright and popping her cookies with every leap of the Jeep. Poor Sunbeam, as a war dog she'd be practically defunct.

And I was simply dying to join the K-9 Corps!

Goodie and I discussed the matter too and she said, "Well, I really think I'd better not attempt it. I know my limitations and anyhow I think I'd better stay home and protect the family. There might be an invasion or something, and just suppose all the men, women, children and dogs in the United States left to go to war, what would happen to our beautiful free country then?" I had to admit she had something there. Anyhow she's too little and wooly to be of any use for front-line duty.

Then Queen came zooming into the conversation like a clumsy tank out of control and a broad grin on her Great Dane face. "Don't be downhearted, girls," she roared, "because I, like every patriotic citizen, offered my services to my country and tried to join the armed forces in the K-9 Corps, but they turned me down. You'll never guess why!"

"Why?"

"I feel quite embarrassed to have to admit this, but they said I was too big and too old. I don't mind being called too big, but I do object to being called too old. Imagine! Me! Why, I'm just as girlish as I ever was, and coy, especially when any of the boys glance my way." She fell off the porch with a thud and one foot in a flower pot. She looked a little self-conscious as she pulled herself out of her nose dive and shook the rubble from her paw. "Anyway I bet I'd look cute in a uniform."

"What uniform?"

"Any uniform, but we don't have to wear a uniform to help our country."

"Don't we?"

"We can't buy war bonds because we're only dogs."

"And we can't work in the ship yards for the same reason." Disconsolately I nibbled at a flea. "Being a canine 4-F is most humiliating."

Queen shouted with delight, "Where have all you pooches been?" she wanted to know. "Don't you ever read the newspapers or listen to the radio?"

"Oh, I listen to the radio when it's on but it doesn't do me any good, I can't understand a word the commentators are saying."

"Neither can I and between you and me and the gate post I don't think they know what they're talking about themselves."

"Of course not," roared Queen, "I sniff my news up from the canine grapevine, grass and trees and all those dog-gone things."

"Well, hurry up and tell us what you dug up," I snapped. "If there's anything us 4-F pooches can do to help our country I want to know about it."

Queen stepped up on a bench with great dignity, frowning and trying to look thoughtful, "Ahem," she began, snapping her jaws shut to impress us. "All dogdom is agog and howling with joy for now us home-fronters can join the Dogs For Defense."

"Hear! Hear! Woof! Woof! Gr----!"

"Not many dogs are eligible for enlistment in the Armed Forces but we can join the Home Guard to help send other dogs to war. All we have to do is to get our two-legged families to contribute, any amount from one dollar up to a hundred, and then we can share in the fine work that dogs are doing to help win the war. So those of us who can't be sentinels, messengers, pack toters or Red Cross nurses can at least procure dog power for the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard. So now we can perform a historic service to man. For from the ancient bas-reliefs of Egypt down to the silhouette of a Coast Guard patrolling the Long Island shore, dogs have been part of the picture of war. Germany has used them most; of the thousands she trained before this war, she shipped 25,000 to Japan. Some of them turned up in Malaya—scouring the jungle ahead of infilterating troops, ferreting out British machine-gun nests, and exposing them to Jap fire. But our side has dogs too. They patrol England's shoreline; Russian huskies haul machine-gun sledges; airdales run the Canadian's messages. And in our armed forces are thousands of dogs, the exact number a military secret—training in the K-9 Corps at half a dozen camps. The corps began with 200 dogs privately trained through Dogs for Defense, and is expected eventually to number 300,000.

"But it costs $10.00 to 'process' a dog for wars; before the animal actually enters the corps. Now here's where we back the attack. Dogs for Defense pays for registration, examination, crating and shipping. Hence the war dog fund with its home enlistment plan, and I think it's a perfectly doggy idea. We can all be WAVEs now."

"Who started all this?" Sunbeam wanted to know.

"A perky little black and white smooth fox terrier by the name of Nornay Saddler, and he's captured 56 best-in-show titles and sired more than twenty champions."

"Wouldn't you know it would be a smarty little guy like that to think up something really constructive!"

"All right I'll join up," I said and cocked my ears at my girl friends. "What do we have to do?"

They all nodded, scratched a couple of fleas and said, "Woof, woof!"

"Well," said Queen, "it's so-much-per-rank."

"Do I have to be a WAVE?" pouted Goodie.

"Oh, no, you can be a WAC or a Marine, but as our master is in the Navy I think we should all be sea dogs."

Sunbeam looked bewildered. "I'm all at sea now," she mourned.

"All right," growled Queen, "I'll explain it. $1.00 makes you a Seaman, $2.00 Third Class Petty Officer, $3.00 Second Class Petty Officer, $5.00 Chief Petty Officer, $10.00 Ensign, $15.00 Lieutenant, $20.00 Commander, $25.00 Captain, $50.00 Rear Admiral, $75.00 Vice Admiral, and $100.00 Admiral, or the equivalent

POETRY

SMALL RED FISH IN A TROPICAL SEA

A supple jewel gleams in this bluest of wells, plunging a lucent bubble trail to the heart of this mile-deep azure.
Diamond-fin, ruby-eye flashing through sweet blue jelly,
a starlet glance through aspic luminescence.

Likt this mouthless fleck, my heart goes out, of a morning, swimmingly into the sky-thick dawn,
bubbling and silvering the sea of timely space.
It is new, clean-shaped, deep-dyed with brilliance and exhilaration.
But, ah, my youngest adventurer,
how tired, and with what dun colors you return!

—D. L. Emblen, U.S.N.

MORE POIGNANT IS THE JOY

How true that I have welcomed many springs
And felt new vigor coursing through my veins;
Have known the joy the budding leaflet brings
Viewed through the haze of countless springtime rains.
The first pale crocus lifting starry eyes,
The lilac's sweetness on the April air,
Seem with my own heartbeat to synchronize,
A miracle rebirth from old despair.

The depth of feeling grows with every year—
More poignant is the joy, for buried deep
Within me is an added note, a fear
That this may be the last spring I shall keep.
Thus now I learn with jealous desperate need
The law of change, new growth, new earth, new seed.

—Helen Hyde Jensen

CARMEL, OR NEW ENGLAND REVISITED

The house and the hill
In the wind and the rain,
And, chiefly, the forest
Remind me of Maine.

The waves on the beach
With the wind blowing right
Remind me of hours
Near Sankaty Light.

Years on the prairie
Are gone like the foam
That dissolves at the wave-edge—
This place brings me home!

—Lt. Morris Earle, U. S. Army

A JOURNEY ENDS

I have seen death too often to believe in death.
It is not an ending . . . but a withdrawal.
As one who finishes a long journey,
Stills the motor,
Turns off the lights,
Steps from his car
And walks up the path
To the home that awaits him.

CHRISTION SCIENCE CHURCH

"Beloved, let us love one another: for love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God." These words from I John comprise the Golden Text to be used Sunday, January 30, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts. The subject of the Lesson-Sermon will be "Love."

Included among the Scriptural selections will be: "Thous shalt not avenge, nor bear any grudge against the children of thy people, but thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself: I am the Lord," (Lev. 19: 18).

The following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included: "At all times and under all circumstances, overcome evil with good. . . . Clad in the panoply of Love, human hatred cannot reach you. The cement of a higher humanity will unite all interests in the one divinity," (p. 571).

CHURCH OF THE WAYFARER

The service next Sunday morning at the Church of the Wayfarer will be dedicated to the memory of Franz Schubert, the 147th anniversary of whose birth occurs on the following day. His triumph over tragedy has lessons for all frustrated people. Dr. James E. Crowther will preach on "Life's Unfinished Symphony." The organ music will be from Schubert's compositions, as follows: "Andante," "Ave Maria," "Prayer," and theme from the "Unfinished Symphony." The Church School begins at 9:45; the Church Service is at eleven. Visitors are cordially invited.

Aerial Warfare at Cockburn Ranch

Round about but none the less welcome to her Carmel friends is word of Loraine Cockburn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ranald Cockburn, former owners of the Pine Cone, now sheep ranching near Witter Springs. In the Keeping Posted column of the Saturday Evening Post of last week appeared a paragraph indicating that Loraine, like most of the younger set, has become actively air-minded.

The Post paragraph:

After reading the Post's editorial on small boys who imitate dive bombers and ack-ack guns being wired for sound, Mrs. Ranald Cockburn, of Witter Springs, California, was puzzled over why we confined our editorial observations to boys.

"My daughter," she writes, "ranch bred, is frequently cavalry —sometimes captain, sometimes horse. The whinnying, neighing and dead-run charges of the latter shatter the peace for pastures around us. In fact, we are relieved when she mechanizes.

"This morning, my dainty bit of femininity took off from her bedroom, climbed, dove and barrel-rolled down the hall. At the head of the stairs she located herself with tracer bullets, machine-gunned same, and crashed—via the banister — onto the living-room floor. Then she exploded into flames.

"I know my part. I asked, 'Zero or Messerschmitt?' 'Zero,' she replied. 'We sure got him! When's breakfast'?"

SEND YOUR BOOKS TO WAR

The California Library Association is asking for books for transport and overseas shipment in the 9th Service Command. Books may be left at the Harrison Memorial Library for forwarding to the shipping points. In this campaign, only recent books, fiction or non-fiction, in good condition will be sent. Wouldn't you like to contribute your Christmas books that you have read?

No Time to Twiddle Even Though Dog Licenses Are Slow

In answer to the routine question, "What's doin' in your department this week?" City Tax Collector Frank Hefling told the Pine Cone-Cymbal, "Dog licenses and taxes and they're slow. It's an off season."

What constitutes an off season in dog licenses? People just weren't getting them, Hefling said, and it must be the weather, because Lord knows the deadline is creeping up on them on the first of February. After that any dog without a tag will be out of bounds and, " We have a dog catcher. They better not forget the fact."

As for taxes, the second installment which became due January 20 isn't delinquent until April 20 so people do not need to hurry up about paying it and that's what they are not doing this week, Hefling opined.

"But don't get the idea I'm up here twiddling my thumbs while the citizens let their dog licenses go delinquent and wait until April to pay their taxes," said Hefling. "I have the police phone to take care of and there's never an off season on that."

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

A run-off election between candidates Betty Powell and Alice Williamson, who had tied for the secretarial position at C. H. S., was held Thursday the 20th in order to make a final selection.

Alice Williamson is the new secretary and will go into office next Friday, the 28th, with the other officers. —Stanley Ewig.

Sports

In the first quarter of the heavyweight game, won by Carmel 41-31, the Gonzales Mustangs drew first blood and from then until the half the Gonzales team held the lead. The half ending with the Mustangs leading with a score of 18 to 10.

The second half opened with Bohlke scoring first point, for Carmel and then, the Padres really turned on the heat. From here the boys pulled into the lead although the Mustangs were right behind them.

In the last few remaining minutes of the game the Carmel heavies put on the old pressure and pulled away from the Mustangs, ending the game with a score of 41-31.

Carmel boys, both light and heavies, met up with difficulties when they came out on the Gonzales court. Because it was somewhat smaller than their own court they were slightly confused. Next week they will be back on their own home court when they tangle with Pacific Grove.

Sophomore Hop

Starting at 8:00 and going on until 12:00, the Sophomore Hop was a huge success. Free cookies were served and cokes sold. The main event of the evening was the entertainment given by Gail Fraties and Don Adams, who really beat it out on the piano. The four piece orchestra was one of the best yet at a school dance.

Exam Week

If by chance you have seen a few of us up here at high school walking around with a rather dumb, palid expression, it's probably because of exams. That particular time of the year has rolled around again when the students try just a little harder and study just a little longer—sometimes all of five minutes longer.

It does seem rather strange all this studying but from little bits of chatter I have picked up, it seems to pay off pretty well when report cards come around.

Nevertheless, we think it a good thing that this type of torture need only be suffered by the poor students four or five times a year.

Of course the teachers don't exactly lead normal lives during these brief days of terror. In fact, it's rumored that they all rush home and lock themselves in to protect themselves from the sticks and stones and verbal outbursts which are hurled at them from the nerve wracked students.

—Del Wilson

New Teacher

Carmel Hi has a new music teacher, and a very nice person she is, too.

Miss Dorothy Recht received her training at the West Coast's famous Mills College in Oakland. Graduating in 1941, she immediately began to teach music at Riverdale high school in Fresno, staying there until 1943. (Students take note: she's not a fledgling, so don't try any funny business.)

Miss Rechts' hobbies are piano playing and reading. Now that she's teaching at C. H. S. I doubt if she'll get much reading done.

This is the first time Miss Recht has ever been to Carmel. She thinks the town is lovely and hopes to be able to stay awhile.

Asked her opinion of C. H. S., she replied, "So far, so good."

Carmel Men Elected Boy Scout Officials

Clayton Neill's appointment as District Chairman of the Monterey Bay Area Council of the Boy Scouts was confirmed at the eleventh annual meeting of the council held in Salinas last week.

Other Carmel men elected were: O. W. Irwin, national council representative; Everett Smith, executive board member at large and F. L. McClain, district commissioner.

Ernest Morehouse, Bill France and Fred Dekker, have been appointed members of the district committee.

Serving as Scoutmasters in Carmel are: H. O. Davis and Police Officers Frank Hay and Ed Jelich.

Red Cross

HELEN A. FIELD

Mrs. Kent Parrott, chairman of the Nurse's Aides of the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross is organizing a new class for Nurse's Aides to begin on Feb. 7th. Metings of the class will be held at Headquarters from 9:30 to 12:30 for ten lessons, followed by work at the hospital under the supervision of a graduate nurse. Mrs. Briggs, who has taught this class before, will be the person in charge. Graduation to full status as Nurse's Aide comes after the completion of 80 hours work in class and hospital.

There has never been a time in history when there has been such need for nurses, both at home and in the field. Hospitals are put to it to keep the nursing staff sufficiently large to care for the patients who crowd their rooms and wards. Increasingly they are calling upon the Red Cross for Nurse's Aides to fill, so far as their training permits, the places of the graduate nurses who are going into service on the war front. Anyone who can possibly do so should seriously consider becoming a member of the class now offered, looking upon the opportunity it provides as a chance to serve her country in this emergency brought about by the war for a cause in which we all are deeply concerned.

Registration should be made as soon as possible at Carmel Red Cross Headquarters.

Hi Students Hear Talk on Air Corps

"With its Air Corps Enlisted Reserve, the United States Army is offering the youth of America one of the most outstanding training programs in the history of the military service," stated Captain C. N. Burger, AC, President of the San Francisco Aviation Cadet Examining Board speaking before an assembled group of students from the Carmel high school Friday. "The young men of seventeen are enrolled in a five-month pre-flight training course in one of the country's colleges or universities, shortly after reaching their eighteenth birthday. Upon the successful completion of the course, they then become full-fledged Aviation Cadets in Uncle Sam's Air Forces and go through the course of aviation flight training."

A film, "Beyond the Line of Duty," was shown in connection with the talk.

Seventeen year old men interested in the Army's Aviation Cadet program are encouraged to apply at the Cadet Examining Board, either at the Presidio of Monterey or at 49 Fourth street, San Francisco. The U. S. Army Recruiting Station in the Monterey Chamber of Commerce will answer further questions.

PUT YOUR FINGER DOWN ON THIS SABOTEUR OF HEALTH ... Keep on top of the "flu" germ this winter. He is going about nipping folks these cold and wet wintry days. Don't let him sabotage your health and cost you time and money on your important job these war days.

When you go out of doors this winter—dress in warm, dry, weather-tight clothing. But if you should come home cold and wet, change at once to warm dry clothing. At the first symptom of a cold, doctor-up and climb into bed. Get the advice of a nurse or doctor and get well and keep well.

It would be a good idea, too, to see that your home heating equipment is working efficiently and economically. Use heat wisely. Do not overheat and waste fuel. Keep windows and doors and fireplace openings closed to prevent heat loss. All fuel today is fighting fuel, essential and vital and enormously needed in war production.

Will nobody answer this bell?
I've rung day and night,
'Till my hair has grown quite white."
But nobody answered that bell.

Navy Doctor

When I grow up, I'm going to be a navy doctor. I'm going to have a watch dog to help me. I am going to name him Shale.
—Tommy Hartzell, grade 3

When I grow up I'm going to be a nurse. I'm going to be an Army Nurse because my father is a major in the Army.
—Penny Bestor, grade 3

When I grow up I am going to be an ear, nose, and throat doctor.

Our New Class Officers

Last Friday we elected new class officers. They are as follows: President, Pat Merivale; Vice-president, Jeanine Marshall; Secretary, Barbara Hollard; Treasurer, Nancy Miller. I hope they are as successful as the others have been.
—Vera Williamson, grade 5

The Dogs And My Pussy Cat

The dogs and my pussy cat
Went to tea
In the artist's village
Down by the sea.
The cat saw the fish
And jumped over the dish
And that was the end
Of that dear little fish.
The dogs with a bound
Ran into the town
But they landed of course
In the peninsula's pound
While poetical Mike
Pumped off on his bike.
—Mike McClure, grade 5

Last night I heard the wild wind whistle through the trees, and did it scare me! I woke up in the middle of the night and could hear the wind and ocean fighting from way up in the Paradise Park. It sounded so scary that every once in a while I thought I could hear somebody at my window. I turned on the lights and saw that nobody was there. I guess the wind was teasing me. Soon I went back to sleep.
—Jimmy Wurman and 5th grade class

America Fights

Does America fight?
Sure we do
With all our might!
Paper, we all collect,
And we're proud to stand erect.
Now as America fights
Let's all conserve our lights
And help push those Japs
Right off the map.
—Eva Lou Lippi, grade 5

Tale of a Tail

When I lived in Washington, D. C., we lived in the Franklin Hotel. There was a park across the street from it. We would go there almost every day.

One day when we were watching the squirrels hide their nuts, I wanted to see how their tails felt. I got very near to one and touched its tail. Then all of a sudden he bit my finger. Ever since then I haven't tried to touch a squirrel's tail!
—Alma Florente, grade 5

KNITTERS NEEDED

An urgent request has been received by Bundles for America from the Navy for V-neck sleeveless sweaters which are used in hospitals and are also made available to ship wrecked sailors, Dr. Emma Pope, president of the Carmel organization announced this week.

Similar articles sent by Bundles have been well received and are very much appreciated, hence the urgent call for more. "Surely those qualified will be ready and willing to lend a hand to our sailor boys who are doing such a grand job for all of us who are comfortable at home," Dr. Pope said in urging that knitters send in their names or report for further word at the Bundles Salvage Shop, Dolores St.

Rummage Sale for Altar Restoration Fund This Weekend

A rummage sale, jointly managed by the Carmel Mission Altar Society and the Junipero Serra Mothers' club. opened yesterday in the space formerly occuppied by the Village 5 and 10 store on Ocean avenue, to continue through Friday and Saturday between the hours of 10 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Generous contributions of a wide variety of children's clothing, adult garments such as sweaters and skirts, men's coats, books and other articles have been gathered by the committee headed by Mrs. Raymond Brownell and Mrs. Gertrude Stoney and including Miss Ellen O'Sullivan, Mrs. Elsie Martinez, Mrs. Mary Reardon and Mrs. Cox. Twenty-four members of the Mothers' club are serving as saleswomen. The funds realized from the sale will be used by Father Michael O'Connell for the restoration of the altar at Mission San Carlos de Borromeo to its original state, in the days of Father Junipero Serra.

MRS. PAUL WHITMAN HERE

Mrs. Paul Whitman came down from San Francisco to spend the weekend as the guest of Mrs. Lloyd Tevis.

P. D. Won't Be Rifle Packin' Poppas While Hay Is Acting Chief

As acting chief of police while Chief Roy Fraties is on vacation, Officer Frank Hay likes his job just dandy, but he wants no part of the deer fight which the Fish and Game Commission this week neatly brushed off into the laps of the Peninsula law enforcement officials.

Following a public hearing in Monterey in which nature lovers glared at gardeners who wept on the shoulders of the Fish and Game Commission about how the tame deer were coming out of the game preserve to eat up their cabbages and petunias and would the Fish and Game Commission please do something to exterminate the varmits, the Fish and Game Commission went into a mighty silence. They emerged this week with the sage decision to let George do it, George in this case to be the chiefs of police of the Three Cities whom the commission graciously empowered to shoot the garden-ravaging deer within the limits of their respective cities if they decided that such action was in the public interest. And to be entirely impartial in dividing up its favors, the Commission conferred upon the sheriff discretionary powers as to shooting the deer in the game preserve outside the city limits, thus making a complete job of placing the local law in a position to be torn apart between the petunia fanciers and the preserve our wild-life faction.

But Acting Chief of Police Frank Hay refuses to be torn. If anybody is going to make rifle packin' poppas out of the Carmel Police Department it will be Chief Roy Fraties when he comes back from his vacation. Hay insists he's just "Acting."

How I Became A Sea Dog

rank if you want to be an Army or Marine dog."

Goodie, always being a little on the suspicious side, asked, with one eye peeping through her bangs, "Are there any famous dogs belonging to this Defense of the home front?"

Queen frowned at her then grinned, "Oh, my, yes," she thundered, "Helen Hays, Robert Young, Bette Davis, Booth Tarkington, J. Edgar Hoover, Mary Astor, Clifton Webb, Tallulah Bankhead, F. D. Roosevelt, Jr., Katherine Cornell, Joan Crawford, Ray Milland, Eve Gallienne all have their pooches enrolled in Dogs for Defense, and of course President Roosevelt's Falla."

"What's his rank?" I asked.

"Private."

"Only a private? I bet his secret ambition is to be a general."

"Oh, he will be some day."

Well, now we're all happy in the Peterson family because we have three ordinary seamen among us. Of course, I, being the oldest, am a Third Class Petty Officer, but I expect to be promoted pretty soon, maybe to Ensign, but I'm afraid it will only be to Chief Petty Officer. Anyhow it's fun to contribute to the War Dog Fund. We four-leggers get the glory, wear medals, receive honorary commissions in our favorite branch of the Armed Services. And any kind of stay-at-home dogs can join. Little ones, big ones, thoroughbreds, beloved mutts, patriotic females, that's us. There is no distinction of age, color or sex. And if any of you Carmel bow-wows have already joined get three of your friends to join and you will be awarded the new War Dog Fund STAR OF MERIT Certificate!

Oh, yes, I almost forgot to give you the address, Dogs For Defense, Inc., 250 Park Avenue, New York 17, N. Y.

And if I can work it with the City Council, I'll be recruiting down at the Post Office.

dian, New Statesman, Time and Tide, the Christian Science Monitor and P. M. and, during the eighteen years when her headquarters were in France, wrote the regular Paris letter for the London Vogue covering such topics as the cinema, music and decorative arts.

She was in Tahiti when the counter-revolution broke out in Spain, firing her imagination and calling up an ardent partisanship for the republican forces in that unhappy country which she knew so well and so lovingly. She returned immediately to the United States and the following winter went to Ireland to put on what she calls "an Anti-Franco show" in Dublin. Then she crossed to France and engaged in the work of aiding the wounded Spanish Republicans.

Her present book begins in September of 1938, when she made her way into Spain on an assignment for the Chicago Daily News. Here she made first-hand observation of the captains and crews of the British blockade-runners, of Italian and German bombers dropping their lethal cargoes along her route from Barcelona to Madrid, of Spanish men, women and children in all the humble walks of life, exposed to the many facets of war.

In Madrid, scarred by bomb-craters and the rubble heaps that once were dwellings and public buildings, Mrs. Lindsley encountered ironic drama, from which she draws the moral of her book. Madrid had weathered the fascist siege and there was hope of winning in republican hearts. Then came the night on which she and the entire population listened to the Chamberlain report on the Munich pact, and knew that their cause was lost. For her moral is Spain, and the fact that what happened there decided the fate of Europe. It is her firm conviction that all of the global conflagration is the same war; that the People everywhere are all on the same side, fighting the same enemy, Fascism.

"And the Spanish people understood this clearly in 1938," she adds. "'France will fall next,' they predicted."

Following the triumph of the Franco forces, Mrs. Lindsley went to Palestine, to do free lance writing for the British newspapers and continue her observations of everyday people. It is her talks with them that she records throughout, never her chance meetings with the "big-shots." Her book is singularly devoid of references to impressive names of acquaintances and friends who met her at airports or provided contacts that were useful in serving her ends.

In Palestine she was deeply impressed by the civilization which had been built up by its Jewish population, in the various successful reclamation projects which were transforming the desert into a productive land. She was convinced by what she saw and heard that the Arab terror which hung over the country was directly traceable to and paid for by the agents of Adolph Hitler and Benito Mussolini. Again it was the People versus Fascism.

The third and last part of her book, the factual account of her European adventures is laid in France. Her headquarters were first in Perpignan, from where under government permit she journeyed about, taking motion pictures in the various concentration camps. In Paris she worked on films depicting conditions behind the lines—for by this time France was in the war—and of children evacuated from the fighting zones.

During this time her daughter, Miss Leonora Lindsley, was driving an ambulance in northeastern France, behind the Maginot Line for the Dix-Neuvieme Train of the French Army, in the thick of the combat. For her bravery under fire she was awarded the Croix de Guerre and a distinguished citation. Following the fall of France, Miss Lindsley worked for a time in the hospital at Pau and after demobilization returned to the United States. At present she is engaged in Red Cross work in England.

Mrs. Lindsley left Paris on June 13, 1940, the day before the Germans marched into the city. She delivered her films to the French government in Tours and stayed in Bordeaux until the armistice was signed.

"I couldn't stand the atmosphere of Vichy-France," she explains. "So six weeks later I got the job of driving an American Field Service Ambulance to Paris."

During the next seven months Mrs. Lindsley worked in the beginnings of the Underground Railway in France, aiding in the escape of French soldiers, many times harboring them in her own house, where she dispensed with the services of a maid or a concierge for fear of spies, her acceptance into this secret work effected through a Spanish Republican refugee whom she had met in Madrid.

At this time the one desire of the average French soldier, she explains, was to escape and join the forces of General de Gaulle.

"There is no doubt," says Mrs. Lindsley, "that General de Gaulle was the hope of the French people. And they wholeheartedly wanted to continue fighting. The only collaboration between French and German was among the business men of France and the rich. There was no defeatism among the workers and the peasants. Their spirit was wonderful."

With the passage by their German conquerors of a law forbidding more than three people to congregate, or even walk together on the streets, with the rigid policing of cafes, the prohibition of all gatherings, the food cues became the popular forums. While these were policed, by French gendarmes, to control the not infrequent scenes of violence, there was plenty of opportunity, in the three or four hours during which people had to stand in line with their tickets—often only to discover there was no food to be distributed — for the frank exchange of information, political ideas, details of plotting, and always the tiring of grievances.

"It was in the food cues in Paris that the spirit of the French people was reborn," states Mrs. Lindsley. "Paris market people have always been known for their vigorous minds and characters."

The first open violence to arouse the Paris populace occurred on November 11th, Armistice Day, when two hundred students, ranging in age from fourteen to seventeen, marchd defiantly up the Champs Elysees to lay a forbidden wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. As they marched they sang the Marseillaise, but it was not until they came out into the square and broke into Tipperary that the German soldiers, advancing from one of the converging streets, opened up fire. They shot at the pavements in front of the children, but so close that their bullets ricocheted up, killing fifteen or twenty of them and wounding many. The remainder of the little band was arrested, among them the fifteen-year-old son of a friend of Mrs. Lindsley's. They were carted off and never heard of again.

During the early days of the German occupation of Paris, Mrs. Lindsley also took part, with other Americans, in carrying food from the American hospital to the inmates of English and French prison camps, and reports that there were many escapes. Later the food situation grew increasingly worse and the service was prohibited. By that time, too, most of the prisoners had been sent into Germany.

"We had little or no conversation with the Germans," explains Mrs. Lindsley. "But whenever we did, their invariable question was, 'Why do you Americans drive for the French? Why not for us?' To which we replied, briefly and diplomatically, 'The French asked us and you didn't'."

She found the French people as a whole not anti-British, though there was a strong fascist bloc in Paris.

"The populace always cheered when the British came over and bombed," she states.

War Is People makes interesting reading. One is impressed by its sincerity and the scope of its material. To listen to Mrs. Lindsley as she relates her experiences is better; they gain from the impact of her vivid personality and from the continuous thread of logic which is often drawn out by the questions of her hearers. If any criticism can be offered here about her book it is the one shared by many other accounts of personal experience in the thick of conflict, where the task of recording has been motivatd by an intense emotion, and the writer is too prone to leap from incident to incident without making clear always the importance of that incident in proving his thesis, or considering it dispassionately from all its suggested angles.

Nevertheless, it makes a valuable contribution to the realm of facts-we-should-be-told. And its publication was hailed with praise from many distinguished critics. Louis Bromfield, writing a feature review in the Atlantic Monthly of March, 1943, describes War Is People as the work of an author "to whom people are first of all people. She has discovered the secret, undiscovered by too many in this world, that fundamentally what is of importance in people is character, intelligence, tolerance, and faith in a decent ideal." He adds further: "I know of no other book which, without pretension, makes so clear the real purpose and significance of the Spanish war, nor of any other book which gives you so simply the picture of realities in a hopelessly complicated situation like that of Palestine . . . As for the tragedy of France, you live through it in the pages of Mrs. Lindsley's book not remotely, objectively, as if you were a correspondent, but personally and realistically, as a participant."

Prior to her brief holiday in Carmel, Mrs. Lindsley was in Mexico, where she served as a delegate from New York to a convention of the Foare, the joint anti-fascist association organized for the purpose of getting refugees to this country. While there she remet many of her Spanish Republican friends whom she had not seen for years and learned that her book is now being translated into Spanish for distribution in Mexico.

Grayce McKay to Entertain

The Women's Auxiliary of the Church of the Wayfarer will meet on Tuesday, February 1, in the recreation room at the church, with sewing at 10:30 a.m., followed by a study group at 11:00. After a box luncheon, the business meeting will take place at 1. For the program which follows Miss Grayce Ethelyn McKay, dramatic reader well-known to Peninsua audiences, will give The Perfect Tribute, by Mary Shipman Andrews, dropping her usual role of comedienne for a more serious vein.

Miss Anne Barrows will sing Mrs. Stuart Haldorn's new patriotic song.

She's Been Named Carmel

A baby daughter was born on Monday, January 24, at the Monterey Hospital to Lieutenant and Mrs. Karl H. Evans of Carmelo street betwen 11th and 12th, and has been named Carmel. Lieutenant Evans is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hayden Karl Evans of San Leandro. He was stationed at the Monterey Naval Base, in the gunnery department, for over a year and departed six weeks ago on overseas duty. He will be apprised of his daughter's birth by a wire from the Red Cross.

Staying at present with little Miss Carmel's mother, the former Winona Shepard, are her mother, Mrs. Ghoun Shepard of Atherton, and her two sisters, the Misses Helen and Au'Deane Shepard.

Dr. Carter at Tarawa

Word was received this week of Dr. Marshall Carter, formerly associated with Dr. John Gratiot in medical practice in Carmel. Now a lieutenant, senior grade, in the U. S. Navy after leaving his practice to enter service in July, 1942, he took part in the second day's landing at Tarawa, having watched through field glasses the initial operations from a boat off-shore. Lieut. Carter and another naval doctor are now in charge of a hospital on Tarawa.

To Join Lt. Pollard

Mrs. Lawrence M. Pollard, for the past six years teacher of the Bay School on the San Simeon highway, has resigned from her post in order to join her husband, Lieutenant Pollard, recently graduated from the Harvard School of Business Administration in Cambridge, Massachusetts, and now assigned as a statistical officer to Patterson Air Field, Dayton, Ohio. Mrs. L. J. Hudson and her sister, Mrs. T. S. Riley, were cohostesses on Sunday afternoon in their Point Lobos home at a farewell tea in honor of Mrs. Pollard, guests for the occasion the parents of pupils at the Bay school and her Carmel friends. Mrs. Pollard's successor for the remainder of the term at the Bay school will be Miss Aurel Brewer, for the past four years a resident of Carmel and recently employed by the Southern Pacific.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Navy Cruisers are built in two classes, light and heavy, the latter displacing about 10,000 tons. Our navy has about an equal number of light and heavy Cruisers, the 10,000 ton Cruiser costing approximately $20,000.000. Many Cruisers are under construction and many more are needed.

To pay for these speedy and powerful ships with their heavy guns and armament we must buy War Bonds. Citizens of a large town or a given community, working in unity, could buy one of these ships for the Navy if they put at least ten percent of their income in War Bonds every pay day.

First Theatre Wedding Reception

The First Theatre of Monterey was the setting on Sunday afternoon for a reception tendered the newly wedded Lieutenant and Mrs. Albert Lukavich at which were present the Gold Coast Troupers, the parents of the bride, her Phi Kappa Phi sorority sisters from San Jose State College and many friends of the young couple.

The wedding ceremony at which Miss Thelma Simpson became the bride of Lt. Lukavich took place at 3 p.m. Sunday in the St. James Church in Motnerey, and was performed by Rev. Vincent Coletta. The bride, attired in a gown with bodice of pale pink brocade and net skirt, carried a bouquet of pink, blue and white blossoms and was attended by Miss Margie Gullich of San Jose. Best man was Lieutenant Alex Weinstock. Beverly Lusarde was organist and Miss Margaret Hartigan sang Because. Miss Hartigan, member of the Gold Coast Troupers and daughter of Mrs. Isabel Hartigan, custodian of the First Theatre, is a sorority sister of the bride at San Jose State College and has been her "suite-mate" during the past term.

The new Mrs. Lukavich is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Simpson of Pittsburgh, California, and an accomplished artist. Lt. Lukavich, formerly of New Haven, Conn., the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lukavich, graduated from the Fine Arts course at Yale University and is now stationed at Fort Ord with a unit of camouflage engineers. During the reception at the First Theatre, at which punch, hors d'oeurvres and the traditional wedding cake, cut by the groom's sword, were served, members of Lt. Lukavich's family assembled in Connecticut and telephoned their congratulations to the newly wedded couple.

Conrad Held Plays Two Instruments in Britt Trio Program

While Mr. Conrad Held, who appears with the Britt String and Piano Trio for the Carmel Music Society on February 6, does not have two strings to his bow, he nevertheless does play two instruments at the concert. Besides being one of the foremost American players of the viola, he is an accomplished pianist, and therefore the Trio will be able to perform a larger selection of music than were he not so gifted.

Another gifted member of the Trio is the leader, Mr. Horace Britt, who apart from his music, is a member of the Astronomical Society of France, a professor of the Mexican National Conservatory, and a devotee of sports, including shooting.

Final Brief Filed In Von Urban Case

With the filing of the final brief by the prosecution today, the Von Urban case enters its last phase, and the defendant and battery of lawyers for the prosecution and defense will have to bide their time while Judge Ray Baugh studies the three briefs and voluminous transcript of evidence before rendering his decision.

Rudolph Von Urban, Carmel Highlands resident and county court psychologist is charged with practicing medicine without a license.

Prosecution was conducted by Deputy District Attorney Charles McHarry, Allen Martin for the State Medical Board and District Attorney Anthony Brazil who appeared in court to cross-examine witnesses the last day of the trial. Niles Cunningham and John Thompson conducted the defense.

The case involved many highly technical legal points which probably accounts for Judge Baugh's requiring the attorneys to submit briefs, a practice seldom followed in criminal cases.

The News and the New Eleventh

By GEORGE E. OUTLAND

This week the House has been excited about two important measures concerning the veterans of World War II: mustering-out pay and the soldier-vote bill. A bill passed the House of Representatives January 20th, providing for mustering-out pay, but in the judgment of your representative it is inadequate, and it will probably be amended to increase the amount after conference with the Senate. The amendment introduced by Congressman Lemke of North Dakota to increase the amount and to spread payments over a period of several months seemed to be an improvement on the original House bill, and your representative voted for it, but it failed by a considerable margin. In any event, a mustering-out pay bill HAS passed and will probably be speeded into final form within the next few days.

Your representative has already stated his position on the soldier-vote bill; namely, that ALL members of the armed services, regardless of sex or color or state of origin, should have the right to vote in the coming national elections. To attempt to deprive them of this vote on any pretext whatsoever is a shameful thing; men and women who are risking their lives that American democracy may live should certainly be granted the most fundamental of all American rights—that of the ballot. Both the bill which has passed the Senate and that which has been approved by a majority of the Elections Committee in the House are inadequate for achieving this purpose. An amendment will be introduced when the bill reaches the floor of the House to provide for a uniform federal ballot; I intend to support such an amendment and feel confident that the majority of the citizens of our 11th District will approve this position.

Joint Resolution 192, which will enable the United States to participate in the work of the United Nations relief and rehabilitation organization is in the public mind at the present moment. This war, like all wars, is entailing tremendous human suffering. The United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration is the community fund of this country and her allies, organized to help relieve such human suffering, just as our local community chests are organized to relieve domestic suffering. Some 44 nations signed the original agreement on November 9, 1943, and the bill in question provides that the United States is authorized to spend up to $1,350,000,000 in cash or in kind for relief operations.

This bill has been ridiculed as "A European WPA" and a waste of money. However, to your representative it is a sound and necessary measure, one which will help to heal some of the terrible wounds caused by the war. I am in complete agreement with the report of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, which, in favorably reporting the bill, concludes its statement with the following words: "The problems presented are international problems — the marshalling of available world supplies; the working out of agreements as to common standards for relief among the liberated areas; the establishment of reserves of supplies for use in whatever areas may be liberated first; the prevention of competitive scrambling for limited relief and rehabilitation supplies in the world markets; and the provision for and the control of the movement of displaced persons. International action is essential if the liberated peoples are to be put in a position to help themselves. They must be given that additional strength which will enable them to go forward with us in the task of economic reconstruction and the rebuilding of a durable peace."

C. E. Scott Wood

Charles Erskine Scott Wood, distinguished author, artist, soldier and lawyer, who with his wife, the poetess Sara Bard Field, has been a frequent visitor to Carmel through a long period of years, died at his Los Gatos estate on Saturday, January 22, at the age of 91.

A graduate of West Point, he took part as a young man in three Indian campaigns, then retired from the service to become a corporation lawyer in the East. Later he abandoned his law practice and moved to the West Coast where he achieved wide recognition as a writer and patron of the arts. His best-known work, Heavenly Discourse, was published in 1927.

He is survived by his wife, Sara Bard Field, and two daughters: Mrs. G. Kirkham Smith of San Rafael and Mrs. Nan Wood Honeyman of Portland, and two sons; Erskine and Berwick Wood of Portland.

ground shows a saving of $341.74, two thirds of which is in payroll reduction, as the same conditions pertained here as in the Street Department. Total Parks and Playgrounds disbursements for 1943, $2,173.22; for 1942, $2,514.96.

Over $1,000 increase of expenditure last year in the department of Health and Safety is largely attributable to the contract with the Pacific Grove Animal Shelter for pound service, necessary because of the rabies quarantine. Pound service for 1942 when Carmel had its own dog catcher was $291.63. Last year it was $1,275.00. Total Health and Safety expenditures, 1943 $2,674.92; 1942 $1,661.55.

Finance Department shows a reduction of $6,849.66 in disbursements, a misleading figure for the city clerk in trying to simplify his report for last year lifted certain expenses that had been heretofore charged against the finance department and placed them as separate departments: Insurance $2,950.77 and Refunds on Business Licenses $409.55 which amounted to $1,177.30 in 1942, substantial sums that almost halve the saving shown for the department. Other reductions of expense can be attributed in large part to the fact that in 1942 city elections were held, an expense that did not occur in 1943. Operating costs were about the same in this department last year as the year before. Total expense for Finance Department for 1942 including insurance and refunds, $19,158.15. For 1943 not including insurance and refunds, $12,308.49.

Annual Report for Carmel reflects the general financial condition of governing bodies throughout the country. State Controller Harry B. Riley this week announced a decrease of over five per cent in cost of California State government for the fiscal year 1942-43. As in the Carmel Street Department, the bulk of the savings for the State was in the Division of Highways, where restrictions on material and labor forced reduction of expenditure.

A detailed account of where the money goes in maintaining government in Carmel is given in City Clerk Peter Mawdsley's Annual Financial Report on page 10 of this issue.

How to Make the Best Of Bad Traveling

Civilians who must travel during 1944 were given five helpful hints today by Harrison Godwin, Carmel, Public Relations Committee Chairman of the American Hotel Association and Manager-Owner of the Pine Inn.

"No matter when victory comes," stated Godwin, "it is logical to assume that travel and, to a great extent, hotel facilities in this country will continue to be taxed to the utmost for at least one or two years after the Axis powers have been crushed.

"To help essential travelers solve their transportation problems, I suggest they follow these five suggestions:

"(1) Travel on less crowded trains, at less crowded hours, and on less crowded days. (2) Have hotel reservations confirmed in advance. (3) Cancel your reservations—transportation and hotel—the minute your plans are changed. (4) Double-up with friends on Pullman and hotel accommodations. (5) Travel light, with minimum luggage—and with bags well marked for quick identification."

Carmel Ambulance Called to Aid of Tree Crash Victims

Carmel ambulance crew responded to an emergency call from Pacific Grove Sunday night when a pine tree crashed through the roof of a cabin in Workman's Auto Court pinning Mr. and Mrs. Walter Haverson under the debris.

It required over two hours' work on the part of Pacific Grove police force and fire department to saw through the trunk of the tree in order to release the victims who were brought to the Community Hospital suffering from cuts, abrasions and shock. Pacific Grove police department asked for the Carmel ambulance because the Pacific Grove ambulance has carrying capacity for only one patient. Fred Mylar and Alec Gibson responded to the call.

Haverson is stationed at the Naval Section Base at Monterey.

First 200 Seamen Will Arrive at Del Monte Feb. 12

The report that Del Monte would become an electrical engineering and radio material school for the Navy was verified Wednesday by Lt. Comdr. G. D. Fitzhugh, executive officer of the former Pre-Flight school, in charge during the absence of Captain G. W. Steele who was on sick leave in San Diego the early part of this week.

Starting February 15, the men will arrive in groups of 200 every two weeks until a compliment of 1200 is reached. The course will require twelve weeks after which the seamen will be graduated as radio technicians 3rd class to be sent on to secondary schools where they will continue with their training. There will be 400 instructors, 60 of whom will be officers.

Of the 200 instructors at the Pre-Flight school during its period of operation, only 36 remain, Comdr. Fitzhugh said, and they are awaiting orders for transfer.

WELL-BABY CONFERENCE

A meeting of the Well-Baby Conference will be held between 9 and 12 on Thursday morning, February 3, in the Church of the Wayfarer. Appointments may be made by calling the Monterey County Health Board, Monterey 8583, or Mrs. James H. Clark, Carmel 1674-W.
